

*Published on November 29, 2007 – www.hmsorchestra.org
Submitted 11/23/07 by Kyle G. Duncan*

This Year's Winter Concert Brings Something New

This winter, concert-goers for the award-winning Henry E. Huntington Middle School Orchestra will be greeted by something a little different from year's past. Upon their arrival, guests will be welcomed in the parking lot by a string quartet. As the crowd wanders in, the mood will be enhanced by a second quartet playing in the breezeway just outside the concert doors. The ambience will be refined and completed by yet a third quartet, whose dulcet tones will delight audience members inside the auditorium as they comfortably take their seats.

Join us for a melodious evening and our first concert of the season on December 14th at 8pm. Fresh after beating out a large field of ensembles and taking the Gold at last year's Forum Music Festival at Fullerton College, Orchestral Director Rob Folsom and the Hunting Middle School Orchestra are looking to soar to even greater heights and add to their list of awards and accolades. Support us by simply coming out and enjoying the show.

The concert will feature classical selections by Vivaldi, Bach, Mendelssohn, Mussorgsky, and Rimsky-Korsakoff. The Advanced Orchestra, String Quartets, Chamber Orchestra, and Intermediate Orchestra will perform.

Huntington Auditorium is located at 1700 Huntington Drive. Admission is free. Refreshments will be provided.